1. Two Day Training Program on organic inputs

Organised by: Department of Agriculture

Date: 28-29 Nov 2022

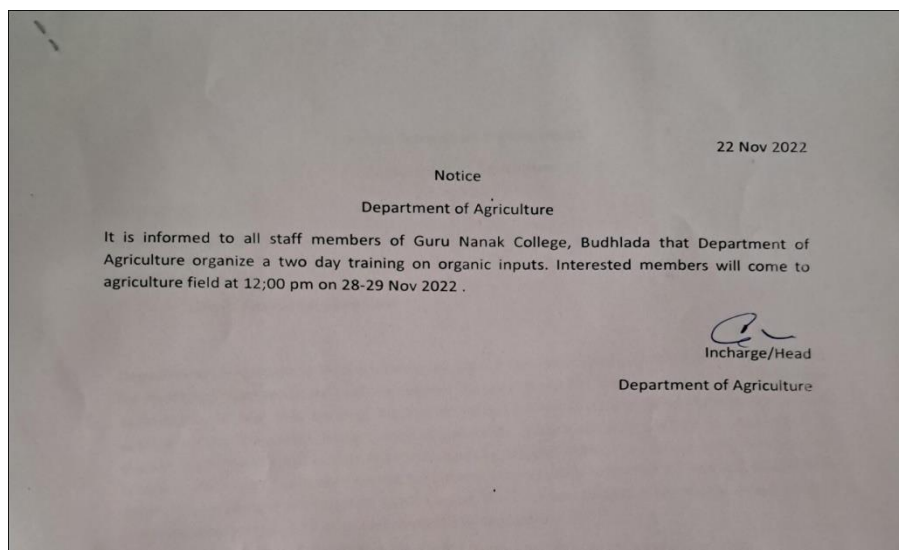

No. of Participants: 12

Venue: Agriculture field, Guru Nanak College, Budhlada

Speaker : Assit. Prof. Sumandeep Kaur
: Assit. Prof. Amandeep Kaur

Description: Department of Agriculture held a training program on organic farming inputs on 28-29 Nov. 2022. Training for teaching/ non-teaching staff in organic farming practices can contribute to sustainable agriculture. During this training, faculty of agriculture department gave information about organic inputs like Neem extract used as pesticide, vermin-compost and vermin-wash used to supply major nutrients to soil and FYM used as organic manure to supply nutrients and for proper aeration of soil which would be helpful for microbial activity. This training would help them to practice organic kitchen gardening at their homes. In this way, they will use organic input materials instead of chemical pesticide or fertilizers.

5. Event Name: Awareness Programme for Mess and Canteen staff of college for cooling temperature of food products.

Organised by: Department of Food Processing

Date: 20th February, 2023

No. of Participants: 16

Objectives of programme:

- To educate mess and canteen staff on the significance of proper cooling in preserving food quality and preventing bacterial growth.
- To familiarize staff with local and international food safety guidelines and regulations related to cooling temperatures for various food products.
- To communicate the direct link between improper cooling and the risk of foodborne illnesses, emphasizing the critical role staff plays in ensuring food safety.
- To provide specific information on recommended cooling temperatures for different food items, including perishable goods, cooked dishes, and leftovers.
- To demonstrate and train staff on effective cooling techniques such as using shallow containers, dividing large quantities into smaller portions, and utilizing proper cooling equipment.
- To emphasize the importance of time and temperature control during the cooling process, including the establishment of maximum time limits for cooling various food items.

Description: Recognizing the critical role of temperature control in ensuring food safety, Department of Food Processing organized an awareness programme on 20th February, 2023 specifically focused on the proper cooling of food products. The objective was to educate and equip the mess and canteen staff with knowledge and skills related to maintaining optimal temperatures during the food cooling process, ultimately enhancing the quality and safety of the meals served. All the above mentioned objectives were shared with the participants. The programme witnessed active participation of mess and canteen staff members, including chefs, kitchen assistants, and food service personnel. The diverse group ensured that all individuals involved in food preparation, storage, and service were adequately represented.

Impact of Activity: The awareness programme on food cooling temperatures for mess and canteen staff has proven successful in enhancing knowledge, improving practices, and fostering a culture of food safety. The positive impact observed among participants demonstrates the effectiveness of the initiative in promoting safer food handling and service within the college community. Continuous efforts and follow-up actions will be crucial to sustaining these positive changes over the long term.

Organised by: Department of History

Date: 22/08/2022 to 26/08/2022

No. of Participants: 34

Description: The Department of History, Guru Nanak College organized a five-day workshop on “Research Methodology in Social Sciences” for teaching staff on 22/08/2022 to 26/08/2022. Dr. Bharti Marwari, IDOL department, Assistant Professor Harvinderjit Singh, Head of Library and Information Science and Dr. Neena Brar, Assistant Professor, Department of Commerce & Management who arrived as resource persons in this workshop, were welcomed by Head of History Department Dr. Sukhwinder Kaur and introduced to the students. About 34 teachers of the college participated in this workshop. Elaborating on the research, Dr. Bharti said that social science research can be done using several methodological approaches. She also stated that some common types of social science research include exploratory, descriptive, experimental, and correlational. Prof. Harvinderjit Singh also informed about the research methodology that the field of social science includes many areas of human behavior. Social sciences include subjects like sociology, anthropology, economics and education. Dr. Nina also explained that social science research addresses human behavior and relationships, including the study of political science and diplomacy. The teachers were highly inspired by the workshop and gained in-depth knowledge about research methodology in social sciences. Finally, Dr. Harjinder Kaur thanked everyone.
